SAILOR ON HARD TRIP Feels Sure of Breaking Down Opposition to League.

had a much rougher trip coming home on the George Washington than he did going over. Some of the days half the party was confined to cabins, but President proved himself an excelle-sallor and surrendered only once, wh the waves and spray were dashing or the bridge and he got a wetting wail-watching the destroyer escort bury itse! plunging about in the heavy seas,

There was a lively epidemic of gra-and Spanish influenza on the ship, many of the attaches of the party being confined to their staterooms or the ships hospital for ... entire voyage. None of the principals, nowever, was affected.

President Wilson still plans to return to France on the George Washington, sailing from Hoboken about March 5, unless something unforeseen occurs. The condition of the French Premier, M. Clemenceau, may turn out to be a large factor in what develops. The possibility of a change in the French Government should the Premier not respond to treat ment for his wound, with the further ossibility of a delay in the Peace Co ference or even a change in the delegation of France, complicates the situation a great deal. The events of the next few days may force a change in the President's plane, but at present he is making preparations for a quick return.

Although the President held several conferences during the return voyage, he did not give any expressions on the work or prospects of the Peace Conference further than to indicate that he feels a certain justification of his position in insisting that the making of peace and the creation of a Learus of Nations are inseparable propositions ot to be dissociated. Mr. Wilson has told friends and od-visors that with the draft of the League Constitution on the table before the conerence, he considers the first great st complished fact and he is not disturbed by the possibility that it doubtedly will be worked over, changed in many respects and probably in the end be quite a different document. Despite all this the known to feel that finally the underlying principles he has proposed will be ac-cepted in the conference. The ratifi-cation of the document in other coun-
